Forecast for Sunday 12 Jun 2022

Weather: Areas of cloud first thing are expected over the higher slopes, with some limited breaks perhaps possible, although bright rather than sunny intervals are most likely given higher cloud. Otherwise on the cloudy and breezy side by day, with the breeze making otherwise respectable temperatures feel decidedly colder. One or two light showers are also possible, these mainly light and most likely in the afternoon. Becoming drier again into the evening.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: 20 improving 80%

Low Cloud and visibility: Areas of cloud down to 400 metres first thing soon lifting clear of even the highest ground. Visiblity marred by early low cloud and perhaps locally later on by showers, but otherwise very good.

Meteorologist's View

Layers are advised given brisk winds at height and the strong sun. The latter is expected to be rather limited given cloud-cover, but adequate protection is still advised given proximity to the solstice.

Forecast for Monday 13 Jun 2022

Weather: Early low cloud may cover the hill tops, and bring a little drizzle or light rain at times. However, this is expected to clear by 8 am to leave a dry bright day with light winds.

Maximum wind: Westerly 12 mph with gusts up to 20 mph in the afternoon on the summits.

Chance of cloud-free hill tops above 800m: Until 8 am: 40% with early cloud covering the hills down to 400m or so. After 8 am: 90% with fair weather cloud well above the summits.

Low Cloud and visibility: Until 8am: Low cloud likely down to 400m above sea level. This will cause patchy hill fog with visibilities down to 100m at times.
After 8am: Very good visibility of distant hills up to 30 miles away.

Temperature: Valleys: 10 C at dawn rising to 17 C in the afternoon.
At 800m: 3 C at dawn rising to 7 C in the afternoon.
Freezing level: Above summits.

Tuesday	Dry bright and warm with light winds and good visibility. Max valley temperature 17C
Wednesday	Dry bright and warm with light winds and good visibility. Max valley temperature 19 C
Thursday	Dry bright and warm with light winds and good visibility. Max valley temperature 20 C
